FROM THE PRINCIPAL'S DESK

ONE MILLION TRILLION TRILLION TRILLION SNOWFLAKES

Principal George Vanderkuur

As I sit here writing, I can see the snow falling softly outside my window. We are often told that no two snowflakes are alike. While that may be true, its also highly improbable. In a typical winter, approximately one million trillion trillion snowflakes fall on Canadian soil—giving us a vast number of chances for some identical flakes. In fact, this staggering number of snowflakes is still fewer than the number of stars in the known universe.

While it's possible that identical snowflakes—and even identical stars—may exist, one thing is certain: no two students are ever the same

In the past, education often followed “one-size-fits-all” approach. Today, however, we understand that the best practices in teaching recognize and value each student for the unique gifts they bring to the classroom. By fostering an environment that celebrates individuality, we empower students to make meaningful contributions not only while they are in school but also in the world beyond.

Much like the intricate beauty of a snowflake, each child is a marvellous and unique individual, deserving of the attention and care that allows them to flourish.

May 29, 2025

The latest date all applicants who submitted their application by the January application deadline can expect a response from an Ontario university. This includes an offer of admission, a refusal or a deferral, once additional information is received.

June 2, 2025

The earliest date an applicant may be required to respond to an Ontario university offer of admission and give a financial commitment (e.g., registration deposit, residence deposit).

All other admission-related elements, including scholarships, other forms of student assistance or financial incentives, and offers of residence, are considered part of the offer of admission. Therefore, a student may accept these other offers before June 2, 2025, but Ontario universities will not compel a student in any way to make a decision before this date.
